Before you Go Congrats on learning how to Auto the screen Rotate Screen or turn it sideways on the Galaxy S10. Especially if you could not find the Auto Rotate option. Please share your thoughts and comments below and please check out our other articles as well. It would be so nice to hear from you so start a discussion now. There are three different icons used for changing your screen orientation: Auto rotate, Portrait, and Landscape. Allows your device's screen orientation to automatically adjust and rotate depending on how you are holding your device. For example, if you turn your device sideways, the screen will automatically switch to Landscape mode. The Auto rotate icon looks like a small phone surrounded by two arrows. The icon will glow blue when enabled. Portrait locks the screen in the upwards position, while Landscape locks the screen in the sideways position. Both icons look like a lock and are gray when enabled. When enabled, your device's screen will not rotate based on how you are holding it, however apps that are designed for a specific mode will rotate the screen as necessary. Auto rotate is turned on by default when you first get your phone or tablet, but it can be turned off at any time. Locking your screen in either Portrait or Landscape mode is actually the same thing as turning off Auto rotate. Once Auto rotate is disabled, your device will lock in whatever position you were holding it in. To adjust the screen rotation settings: 1. Swipe down from the top of the screen to open the Quick settings panel. 2. Look for the screen orientation icon. Depending on your settings, you may need to look for the Portrait, Landscape, or Auto Rotate icon. Remember, the Portrait and Landscape icons are gray when they're active, while the Auto Rotate icon is blue when enabled. 3. If the screen is locked in Portrait or Landscape mode and you need to change it, tap the icon (either Portrait or Landscape) so it activates Auto rotate. If Auto rotate is already activated, you don't need to select anything. 4. After Auto rotate is enabled, close the Quick settings panel. Next, hold your device in your desired position - either upright or sideways. 5. Open Quick settings again. Whether you are holding your device upwards or sideways, swipe down from the top of the screen. Tap the Auto rotate icon to lock your device in your desired position. Remember, Portrait is when the device is upwards, and Landscape is when the device is sideways. 6. Once your screen is locked in Portrait or Landscape mode, your screen will no longer rotate when you turn your device. 7. To unlock your screen or change the screen orientation, repeat these same steps until you've set your desired screen position. Note: Some apps will still open in Portrait or Landscape mode by default.
